Vienna Doomed to Lose Prestige As Great Industrial Center.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The revised text of the peace terms handed to Austria's acceptance by the peace conference was handed to the Austrian plenipotentiary at St. Germain this afternoon.

The treaty was presented to the Austrian delegates by Paul Dasta, general secretary of the peace conference. He also handed them the letter which sets forth Austria's responsibility in aiding to bring about the war and points out that there could not be any other treatment than that accorded Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia.

It has been declared unofficially that the treaty did not provide for a settlement of the Flume controversy at present.

The peace treaty leaves the future of Austria largely in the hands of the league of nations. The treaty is presented in French, English and Italian.

Major Caldwell, Who Led Co. M Into Battle, Home

Major E. N. Caldwell, first commander of Company M, Thirty Second division, and the man who led the boys of Janesville away on their initial step toward Germany, returned to Janesville yesterday, after nearly two years service overseas. He is the same jovial soldier and although severely wounded on two different occasions he has recovered sufficiently to allow him to be away from the hospital for a few days at a time.

Major Caldwell fought in every important engagement during the late world war, as a member of the famous first division.

"The hardest blow of the entire war was when I was notified to leave Company M and go to the first division," Major Caldwell said.

Loved His Boys. "They were my boys and I loved them as a mother loves her children. They came to me as rookies and by diligent application to their work and hours of study they soon developed into the premier company of that well known 'Les Terribles' division."

When I left the boys in France to go to the first division, I left them with the greatest of regret and with the knowledge that many of the boys I would never see again.

"While with the first division I watched the work of Company M from day to day and they were doing just what I expected and a little more. They were real soldiers and I knew they could come through with flying colors."

Set Their Record. "Janesville has every reason to be proud of her soldiers and the men who left here as a member of Company M. While at Camp Douglas they established a record for themselves and shortly after their arrival at Waco, Tex. were conceded by all to be the crack company of the entire division."

Major Caldwell returned to this country a few weeks ago and at present is stationed at Ft. Sheridan. He said he was undecided what he would do after he received his discharge.

RAIL SCHEME SUBMITTED BY CUMMINS

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP UNDER U. S. SUPERVISION RECOMMENDED IN BILL

LABOR'S RIGHTS WELL PROTECTED

Law to Prohibit Strikes or Lockouts Advocated by Sen. Robinson.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 2.—A law to prohibit strikes or lockouts of railroad employees and thus protect the public from transportation tieups, was advocated by Senator Robinson, democrat of Arkansas, today in the senate.

Senator Robinson's address was an analysis and commendation of the bill by Senator Cummins, republican of Iowa, drafted by the senate interstate commerce sub-committee, proposing a permanent railroad control bill.

The bill would give the interstate commerce commission authority to regulate the operation of railroads, under strict government supervision and with a committee on wages and working conditions, composed equally of employers and employees whose recommendations would be subject to final decision of the interstate commerce commission.

The Cummins bill, according to Senator Robinson, who was a member of the drafting sub-committee, amply protects the rights of employees, employers and the public.

Tentative Bill Introduced. A tentative bill embodying the sub-committee recommendations has been introduced by Chairman Cummins and ratified by the full interstate commerce committee. The bill is the result of many months of hearing and work by the sub-committee which, besides Mr. Cummins, include Senators Kellogg of Minnesota and Poinder of Washington, republicans, and Senator of Ohio and Robinson of Arkansas, democrats.

Salient provisions of the Cummins bill include: Termination of government control and return of the railroads to private ownership on the last day of the month of enactment.

Establishing the interstate commerce commission with greatly increased powers, as the supreme body over railroad affairs.

U. S. To Control Roads. Supervision and control of virtually all railroad affairs, including rates, wages and operation and financing by the government.

Creation of a new railway transportation board of five members appointed by the president to supervise railway development and operations, subject to final action of the interstate commerce commission.

Creation of a new committee on wages and working conditions, composed equally of representatives of employers and employees, with wide authority in settling labor questions, subject to decision of the transportation board and interstate commerce commission.

Statements About Ryan Called "Gross Outrage"

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Sept. 2.—Senators Myers told the senate today that charges made by republican members of the house sub-committee investigating aircraft expansion in which they named John D. Ryan, former assistant secretary of war in charge of aircraft production, were a "gross outrage."

The committee members asserted that $5,000,000 of government funds had been "squandered, misappropriated and converted the uses of the Milwaukee railroad interests" and that "further investigation may disclose conditions which may warrant charges against John D. Ryan and others."

BUSINESS TO GIVE WAY TO FAIR ON JANESVILLE DAY

Pleasure will supersede business in Janesville tomorrow when the doors of practically every factory, store, and office in the city will close at noon and the entire population will practically turn to the fair grounds to make Janesville's Day at the fair the greatest in history. All previous attendance records will be smashed tomorrow, as fair officials predicted today.

Exhibits will be open to the public from 7 o'clock in the morning until 1:30 to start promptly at 2 o'clock with John L. Fisher acting as starter. Pronounced by all horsemen as the best race program of the week and the best of the best in the Janesville fair's history, tomorrow's races give promise of packing the grandstand and bleachers so that it will be necessary to hang out the S. F. O. sign long before the start of the initial heat of the first race.

Three races are billed for the day—the 2:15 and 2:20 trots and the 2:10 pace. With an entry list of 23 in the 2:15 trot, 15 in the 2:20, and 12 in the 2:10 pace, comprising the cream of the racing stock of the middle west, competition gives promise of being sharp. Purses aggregating $2,500 will be given away to the winners. Four races will be staged on the mile track.

Judging Completed

Judging of all livestock exhibits will have been completed by tomorrow, so that the thousands who attend may see the blue-ribbon winners.

A number of local dealers and merchants are expected to draw considerable attention tomorrow. The three large tents used to house the mammoth $75,000 automobile show, promenade and band stand, will be filled to play at the auto exhibit during the afternoon. With 26 touring cars and roadsters and 12 big motor trucks and trailers on display, the exhibit is one of the best ever shown at a fair.

It is made up of the following makes of cars displayed by the following exhibitors: B. B. Briggs, 4 Dodge cars and 2 Ford one-ton trucks; Eberhart & Co., Whitewater, Shoup & Co., Milton, Jct., J. Terwilliger, Clinton, Jct., and Janesville Auto Co., Dodge cars and 2 big motor trucks. Warner Tractor Co., Beloit, 3 Warner tractors; Janesville Auto Co., 1 Republic truck, and 1 Overland touring car; A. Russell & Son, 1 Essex, Maxwell, 1 touring car, and 1 Chevrolet truck, and 1 one-ton truck; Terwilliger & Son, Clinton, B. T. Winslow, Janesville, and Eberhart & Co., Whitewater, 3 Nash cars and 1 Nash 4-ton truck; C. J. Heiple, 3 Dodge cars, 1 Geo. car, and 1 Geo. truck; L. J. Theis, Rockford, 2 Franklin cars; Auto Sales & Repair Co., Madison, 1 National touring car; Nitscher Implement Co., 3 Chevrolet cars and 1 Chevrolet truck; J. Strimple, 1 Pan American car, and 1 Parker truck; C. E. Hughes, 1 Chandler touring; and H. S. Bicknell, 2 All-American trucks.

The musical exhibits of H. F. Nott, in the fine arts building, and of the Music Shop, Jaeger & MacKenzie, proprietors, in the educational building, will attract much attention, as will the exhibit of J. N. Bostwick & Sons in the educational building and the furniture show tent of A. L. Leath & Co., near the grandstand.

The hardware displays under the grandstand of Frank Douglas and E. W. Lowell along with the furnace and stove exhibits of E. E. Knight and Charles Burgess, both of Beloit, will draw their share of visitors, together with the exhibit of Gates Half-Sole tires by Smith Bros.

The fair grounds during the remaining days of the fair, will be closed to the public, as the passenger plane which flew from Chicago to Toledo, Sunday, thus delaying his arrival in this city. When he arrived at Toledo, he immediately took the train back to Chicago, and is getting in his own plane, flew to Janesville, arriving here about 6 o'clock last night.

EXHIBITS AND RACES DRAW THOUSANDS

SECOND DAY DEVOTED TO YOUNG AMERICA; OPENING WAS SUCCESS.

FARMERS SHOW OFF LIVESTOCK

Cattle, Pigs, Sheep, Compete For Blue Ribbon Prizes; Midway Busy.

Young America was king at the fair grounds today. More than 2,000 kiddies poured into the gates during the early afternoon to help make their part of the Janesville's great fair and livestock exposition—Children's Day—a success. From miles around they came, all arrayed in their "sunday best", tall ones, short ones, boys and girls of all ages, the future men and women of Rock county.

Some came as early as 5 o'clock this morning bringing their lunches, prepared to make a day of it. Others were content to sit on the grass for the day's fun which reached its height shortly after 2 o'clock with a one-heat pony race on the half-mile track with a number of fast entries.

Watch Antics of Pigs. Supt. and Mrs. A. H. Cullen of the county farm expressed their thanks to the directors of the Janesville Fair association for the kindness shown the inmates of the county poor farm and the inmates of the asylum. The inmates of both institutions were guests at the fair today, and others will attend Wednesday.

The youngsters thronged the grounds in groups ranging from a pair of wide-eyed wonderers to as high as a dozen. They took great delight in watching the antics of the pigs and chickens and also paid great attention to the ponies and exhibits of cattle and sheep.

Derived as much pleasure from the occasion as the children by watching them in their enjoyment. The midway, exhibit buildings, and grandstand were filled with the kiddies all afternoon. They seemed to be everywhere.

The race program this afternoon gave promise of being as thrilling as the 2:30 trot with a field of four fast horses and the 2:25 pace with five in the field—being the chief attraction. A purse of $500 was hung up in each race. Both were to be staged on the half-mile track.

Flyer Furnishes Thrills. Ralph C. Diggins, U. S. overseas aviator, who is to give exhibition flights at the fair grounds during the remaining days of the fair, was on his way to Toledo, Sunday, thus delaying his arrival in this city. When he arrived at Toledo, he immediately took the train back to Chicago, and is getting in his own plane, flew to Janesville, arriving here about 6 o'clock last night.

Mother Rests Easy; Baby at Gazette Tent

Between four and five hundred people took advantage of the Gazette information bureau and rest tent at the fair grounds yesterday. The crowd was largest just before and after the races. Many mothers, tired after carrying their babies around, came to the tent and left them under the care of Mrs. H. M. Fables, who is there all day. One side of the tent was lined with baby cabs. The babies left at the tent are kept happy by means of a sand pile which is under the trees in the back of the tent. There is also a large space covered with green grass and away from the crowds.

One mother came to the tent with red eyes. "I have lost the baby," she said. As much help as possible was given her. The baby was found. She then left it at the tent and saw the fair without worrying.

There are both telephones at the tent. James Garfield, who is in charge of the tent, is kept busy answering these and directing people to the different exhibits. The majority of the questions are asked concerning the exhibits.

A great many people take advantage of the free parcel checking service to leave their bundles while they "see the sights." There are two cots on which those who are tired may rest and there are chairs enough for all.

This rest tent will be open all during the fair. The service is free. The Music Shop has installed a victrola at the Gazette tent for the entertainment of the visitors.

THE WEATHER
Partly cloudy and unsettled tonight and Wednesday. Cooler Wednesday and in north and west tonight.

Safety First

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—The American public is accustomed to stories of mining accidents and lives being sacrificed in the pursuit of wealth.

A new headline has been written over the mining accidents of the past decade by the bureau of mines, according to Director Manning. He claims that the rescue and mine safety work of the bureau have saved five thousand lives since the bureau of mines was founded in 1910.

The death rate in coal mines is still high. In every camp of a thousand miners there are three who will have been killed in mining accidents before a year has elapsed, and more than two a year have been injured.

There are more than a million men working in the mines of America and they face a casualty rate as uniform as that of any detachment at the battle front, and much higher than some military units in action.

Casualty Rate Reduced. Director Manning cites convincing figures to show that the bureau of mines has greatly reduced this casualty rate by means of its mine rescue cars, one of which it operates in each mining district in the United States. These cars are rushed to all disasters, rescue accidents, they go about the country giving lessons to the miners in mine rescue work. The result is that practically every mining camp has a team of workers, fully equipped with oxygen tanks and first aid apparatus.

The days of panic and wasted energy in case of accident are over. Increased rescue work is being done. In a cave-in or explosion occurs now, the work of rescue and of resuscitation is often carried through as systematically and effectively as the digging of coal.

Director Manning claims that the death rate in mines can be reduced 50 percent, and that he is going to make an elaborate effort to impress the importance of mine rescue operators and miners in general, when the new Pittsburgh laboratory of the bureau of mines is dedicated at the end of this month.

The bureau of mines has had a laboratory in Pittsburgh ever since the bureau was founded. The laboratory is now moving into a new million dollar building, with greatly increased equipment and staff. Miners and equipment are sent from all over the United States to attend the dedication. One hundred of the best rescue mine teams in the United States will hold a competition contest for medals and prizes.

Is Notable Addition. Incidentally, this new laboratory will be a notable addition to what the people of Pittsburgh claim is one of the greatest aggregations of technological laboratories and other facilities in the United States. The University of Pittsburgh, the Carnegie Institute of Technology and the Carnegie Museum of Natural History are all near the Bureau of Mines laboratory.

The bureau laboratory includes the only experimental mine in the world, and the scene of two spectacular coal dust explosions during its dedication ceremonies. These explosions are not given for idle amusement to the public press upon mining, but to show a great fact that coal dust, or any other dust containing carbon, is a dangerous explosive.

The proof and advertisement of the fact that dust causes dangerous explosions is an achievement of the bureau of mines hardly less important than its mine rescue work.

Before the bureau was founded, while it was led by a few foolish men, practical mining men scouted the idea that explosions in coal mines were really caused by the accumulation of dust. Their skepticism led to enormous loss of life. Back in 1907, for example, there were four great mine explosions in rapid succession, which killed 800 men and injured thousands more.

HOOVER URGES U. S. CREDITS IN EUROPE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, Sept. 2.—Appearing today before the sub-committee of the congressional committee on war expenditures, Herbert Hoover, said he believed it imperative for the United States to extend European credits to the extent of $2,000,000,000 for a year and a half or two years in order to provide a market for the American surplus and save Europe from disaster.

A Paris dispatch on September 1 said Mr. Hoover's appearance before the congressional committee would be on his own request and that his testimony would be taken as a matter of record. Mr. Hoover was said, in view of alleged inaccuracies in evidence adduced before a congressional committee in the United States and also before the sub-committee with regard to the situation, desired an opportunity to correct them.

Dies With Wife Who Caught Foot in Rails; Fast Train Rushes on

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Sept. 2.—"I'll stay with you," said William P. Tanner, a cashier in the offices of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here, as he held his wife, who had caught her foot in a railroad track, and was killed by her side by a Chicago and Northwestern fast train last night. John Miller, a farmer, in attempting to rescue the couple, lost his left leg and sustained a fracture of the right arm. Three little children are orphans today because of the fatal decision of Tanner to die with his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Tanner were on their way to a picture show in a suburb and when hurrying across the tracks Mrs. Tanner suddenly exclaimed: "My foot's caught!"

The headlights of the approaching limited swept the track. Piagnian Miller came to the aid of the desperate husband. Both men were killed furiously.

Mrs. Tanner swooned. The train hurtled the couple fifty feet to death.

THE PRINCE'S VISIT.
A soldier who had fought in France
overheard a sailor saying to an acquaintance:
"We've licked the British twice and we can do it again."
The soldier, who had fought beside the English, interrupted the sailor.
"Whom do you mean when you say we've licked the British? Where was your father born?"
"In Italy," replied the sailor.
"And where was your mother born?" asked the soldier.
"In Sweden."

"And you say we've licked the British? Now, I'll tell you something. My family has ever here in 1819, and members of it helped win the Revolution and the War of 1812. The people who are NOT going around today with big talk of America's fighting Britain again are the descendants of the men who won our national independence. Americans of oldest stock, who ought to have ideals of true Americanism if anyone has them, are not spilling for a fight with a country that wishes us well and is anxious for our friendship. The peace of the world depends upon harmony and co-operation between the branches of the English-speaking race."

A newspaper published in New York city had the interesting and unique idea of printing several editorials demanding that the young Prince of Wales stay away. "The king business is played out," it remarked. The editorials stopped after readers of the paper had swamped the office with disapproving letters.

America does not want a king, and does not care for the pomp and ceremonial. Yet we have the good sense and good taste to let other countries cling to such harmless symbols as they please, without volunteering to settle the question for them. The prince ought to be welcome here. His visit is an evidence of good will on the part of friendly people who wish to work with us for the general welfare of the world.

AMERICAN COMPLAINTS.
There is a great deal of both written and oral conversation these days concerning the high cost of living. Schemes for lowering the cost of necessities of life have been furnished by housewives and others who either practically have demonstrated short cuts or who have theorized on the subject. But while this surface indication of great activity fairly leaps at the public, the public itself goes merrily on buying what it desires, regardless of the price.

Americans as a rule are grumblers. They resent any attempt of anyone to take advantage of them. They will fight in a minute for a principle, but they are complacent, taking things as they come in the career attitude of mind that has marked us by other nations. Someone will suggest that a certain commodity be boycotted and we flare up, shout loudly in favor, and in most cases finally settle back and let the "other fellow do it."

If someone suggests a way to lower the cost of living the suggestion is read, but perhaps not two out of 10 persons take advantage of it.

Because of the evident lack of interest in such problems the so-called profiteers are alert to put the prices up to the highest notch because being keen judges of human nature, they know how high they can go, and in most cases they ascend to the limit.

When the whole proposition is scrutinized closely, it is seen that we are not getting anywhere on the high cost of living problem because those who could furnish the power seem to have an apathetic attitude toward anything that will cause them to make sacrifice of comfort. We never have had so much money, and it seems to be the desire of most of us to spend it. With the public in that frame of mind, government action is going to have little effect. That this prediction is borne out, one need but point to the lack of interest local people showed toward the government's attempt to sell foodstuffs at cost. The local postoffice, took a few orders, amounting to a few hundred dollars. The enthusiasm which might be expected from an abused public was entirely lacking.

The exhibits at the fair this year show that we of Rock county have been dealt a generous portion of this season's good things. The stock, farm products, fine arts and other offerings are of a high standard. Because of a traffic delay the free attractions were not ready Monday, but the management was not to blame and should be given credit for substituting what it had at hand. With everything in place today and the machinery of the association working smoothly, folks from this part of the state have an opportunity of enjoying an entertaining and instructive exposition.

Complaints are again being made that street traffic at some of the railway crossings in the city is being held up by trains which are left standing longer than the law allows. Perhaps this is another indication of the attitude of the railroad administration under government ownership. The reason it is an imposition on the public. Many persons have been held up several minutes on their way to work, thereby in many instances causing them to lose part of their day's pay for being late on the job.

Who is getting the cream? The consumer is getting the peaches in the following manner: A woman in Iowa, buys a bushel of peaches in her home town for $3.60. When she gets to the bottom of the basket she finds a note from a woman in Texas who packed the basket telling her that the peaches therein were sold for 50 cents. The woman who packed the basket was anxious to know what the consumer had to pay. We are more anxious to know who got the profits.

It is no longer a crime to commit suicide in New York state, the legislature having repealed the law designating such acts as felonies. That state should become popular with that class of people who wish to carry on a flirtation with death and not have the fear of prison bars confronting them if they fail to do a good job.

It begins to look as though Janesville would have to seek different company if she wishes to have a baseball team which will make a showing in a league. The Lake Shore bunch seems to be too active for our athletes.

Milwaukee must be a quiet village these days with only two and three closed because of the actors' strike. Even the baseball team is sound asleep in the cellar division.

The beer which is being sold in Janesville saloons is labeled "non-intoxicating," but judging from the number of drunks seen on the streets last night someone must have had a "sandy kick" or two around to add to the "two and one-half."

Remember that the Gazette rest text is maintained for the comfort and convenience of the public. The young man and matron in church will extend every courtesy if you will tell him what you want. It is in the rear of the grandstand.

If you build a house this fall, you will provide a home for a family. That family will bring more money to the city and your property will increase in value.

There is a fine line-up of fast traveling trotters and pacers at the fair this week. For those who enjoy racing, the cards offered are exceptionally attractive.

Tomorrow is Janesville Day at the fair, and from advanced information received from various sources the biggest crowd of the week will be in attendance.

You still have time to vote for the soldiers' bonus bill before the polls close.

SAVING DAYLIGHT IN GEORGIA.
They are having a hard time with the new time under the day light saving law in Georgia, according to Congressman Lankford of that state. This is the way he explains it:

"We were in the central time zone and were transferred to the eastern time zone and advanced one hour, and then under the so-called daylight saving scheme we were advanced another hour."

So now noon comes at 10 o'clock in the morning and 9 o'clock in the evening comes before dark. Many of the good people of my district like to retire by 9 o'clock but they do not like to go to bed before dark.

"It is all wrong. We now have seven times. We have sun time, the old central time, eastern time, advanced time, incorrect time, no time, and bad time."

"If a man says he will call at your office at 2 o'clock you do not know whether he means at 12 o'clock or 2 o'clock, 2 o'clock, 3 o'clock or 4 o'clock. All depends on the time you have in mind and the time the other fellow has in mind. Every day mistakes are made because of this tangled up time proposition."

A man the other day in my district and county at Ambrose, Ga., said that he got out of bed in the morning at 8 o'clock, caught a train at 7:15 o'clock, rode 14 miles to Douglas, Ga., reaching Douglas at 7:30 o'clock, ate breakfast at 7:15 o'clock, made some purchases and caught a train back at 7 o'clock, and got back home at 7:30 o'clock. According to our different times he was gone from home an hour and a half and got back home 30 minutes before he started."

WHOS WHO in the Daily News

CONGRESSMAN BEE.

Everyone of course has heard of the congressional bee, but did you know that there really is such an animal—or should one say bug? His name is Carlos Bee and he is a representative from the state of Texas.

The congressional bee stung Carlos Bee at a Fourth of July barbecue at San Antonio six years ago. Mr. Bee was the orator of the occasion. He dwelt long and eloquently upon the burning issues of the day. He caused the eagle to scream as he wrapped himself in the gorgeous folds of the starry banner and when he got back to town Leo Sack, who was then covering state politics for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, remarked to Mr. Bee that his oration sounded like an announcement of his candidature for a seat in congress.

The Texas Bee bridled a bit at the compliment and finally said that Mr. Sack could put any construction upon his oratorical efforts that he wanted to.

Mr. Sack's interpretation of Mr. Bee's oratory flared in great headlines the next morning on the front page of the Star-Telegram and the story was telegraphed all over the state, for the Fourth of July is always a dull day for newspaper editors and printers.

Nothing more happened until last summer when President Wilson wrote the political obituary of Representative Slayden in the form of a resume of his war record, and then Mr. Bee, who is a brother-in-law of Postmaster Burleson, took the congressional bee from under his bonnet and the next thing he knew he was elected to the house.

JUST FOLKS By EDGAR A GUEST

THE WILLING HORSE.

I'd rather be the willing horse that people ride to death Than the proud and haughty steed that children dare not touch; I'd rather haul a merry pack and sing out of breath Than never leave the barn to toil because I'm worth too much. So boast your noble pedigrees And talk of manure, if you please—The weary horse enjoys his ease. When all his work is done; The willing horse, day in and out, Can hear the merry children shout And every time they are about—No shames in all their fun.

I want no guards behind my door to pick and choose my friends for me. I would not be shut off from men as is the fancy steed; I do not care when I go by that no one turns his eyes to see.

The dashing manner of my gait which marks my noble breed; I am content to trudge the road And willingly to draw my load—Sometimes to know the spur and goad And when I begin to lag I'd rather feel the collar jerk And tug at me, the while I work, Than all the tasks of life to shirk As does the stylish nag.

So let me be the willing horse that now and then is overlooked, Let me be one the children love and freely dare to ride— I'd rather be the gentle steed of which too much is sometimes asked Than to be the one that never knows the youngsters at his side. So direct me where'er you will, On level road or up the hill, Else on my back the burdens still And run me out of breath— In love and friendship, day by day, And kindly words I'll take my pay. A willing horse! that is the way I choose to meet my death.

Q. How many men were registered in the draft? S. T.

A. In all 26,000,000 men were registered in the draft out of a male population of 54,000,000. This shows that less than half of the males were of fighting age. Of those of fighting age about one-half were fit to fight. So the fighting strength of the United States was shown to be about 13,000,000.

Q. Would readjustment have been easier if the Germans had quit in the spring rather than fall? L. V. W.

A. November was probably the most inconvenient month in the year for the war to have been terminated. The great problem was the readjustment of labor and industry. In November winter was just coming on. This meant that new building enterprises might not be started because of the frozen ground. Such undertakings as road work were not possible. It was the idle period on the farms. There is more suffering from unemployment in the winter than in the summer.

Q. At what time of the year is the earth nearest the sun? O. H.

A. The earth is nearest the sun late in December and early in January.

This nearness to the sun has little or no effect on temperature. It is the directness with which the rays of the sun strike the earth in the summer that makes it hot.

Q. Where does morocco leather come from? C. W.

A. Morocco leather, formerly an article of export from the Barbary coast, is now prepared in the United States from goatskins and sheepskins. Q. From what callings are congressmen chiefly recruited? T. H. C.

A. A study of the last congress showed that 60 percent of the members were lawyers, 10 percent business men, 8 percent journalists, 6 percent educators, 5 percent bankers, 3 percent real estate operators, and 9 percent miscellaneous.

Q. What is the origin of the part the rabbit plays in the observance of Easter? W. J. H.

A. Norsemen are credited with first celebrating the festival of the divinity as Easter. "Ostara" was the word they used. It means the season of reproduction. The rabbit and the egg were used as examples of the possibility of prolific production.

Q. Who is George E. Roberts? T. F. C.

A. George E. Roberts is statistician of the National City Bank of New York. He was at one time director of the mint for the treasury department. Before that he was publisher of a newspaper in Iowa. He is an extensive writer on financial problems and has a reputation for making them clear to the man on the street.

Q. How may I candy the peel of citrus fruit? A. H.

For Young and Old Good Air Comes First

NATURE'S greatest aid for sustaining life and warding off disease is—PURE AIR.

It safeguards Baby, Youngsters, Grown-ups and the Elderly. Heating has much to do with the condition of the air inside. Improper heating does not provide adequate Ventilation or sufficient Humidity (moisture)—and both are vitally necessary to Good Air.

A well-installed modern Warm Air Heating System CIRCULATES and HUMIDIFIES the air. It is the only direct heating method that does.

Scientific heating for health, efficient operation and economy is well exemplified by the which for over twenty years has conclusively proven that its all steel construction is better. It is riveted and calked into a solid one-piece body that is both Dust Proof and Gas Tight.

U.S. Marines Adopt Nash Quad

JOIN the Marines! If you desire to see the world, sign up with this famous branch of Uncle Sam's fighting forces, which in France and elsewhere has won for itself such a high place in the admiration and affection of the American people. Even in so-called peace times, the Marines are constantly on the move from one quarter of the globe to another, keeping order and protecting the interests of America.

Nash Quad Now Standard Equipment For Marine Expeditionary Service

THE Nash Quad, with its record for dependable performance in the service of the Allies during the world war, has been selected by the Standardization Board of the U. S. Marine Corps as standard equipment for expeditionary service.

The selection of the Quad as standard equipment for this use was made after the Marine Corps had conducted exhaustive tests of various trucks, had carefully compared data as to performance and reliability, and after it had had an extended experience with more than 400 Nash Quads in actual service.

This means that from now on Nash trucks go wherever the Marines are sent, to bring up munitions and supplies, and to do all the various hauling tasks for these famous fighters of Uncle Sam.

The Magnificent Ambersons

By BOOTH TARRINGTON

CHAPTER XXII.

They found the job. It needed an apprenticeship of only six weeks, during which period George was to receive fifteen dollars a week; after that he would get twenty-eight. This settled the apartment question, and Fanny was presently established in a greater contentment than she had known for a long time.

On Sunday mornings Fanny went to church and George took long walks. He explored the new city, and found it hideous, especially in the early spring, before the leaves of the shade trees were out.

One of his Sunday walks, that spring, he made into a sour pilgrimage. It was a misty morning of belated snow slush, and suited him to a perfection of miserableness, as he stood before the great dripping department store which now occupied the big plot of ground where once had stood both the Amberson hotel and the Amberson opera house. From there he drifted to the old "Amberson block," but this was only a shadow. The old structure had not been replaced, but a cavernous entryway for trucks had been torn in its front, and upon the cornice, where the old separate metal letters had spelt "Amberson block," there was a long bill board sign: "Doogan Storage."

To spare himself, he went out National avenue and saw the piles of slush-covered wreckage where the mansion and his mother's house had been, and where the Major's ill-fated five "new" houses had stood; for these were down, too, to make room for the great tenement already shaped in unending lines of foundation.

He turned away from the devastated site, thinking bitterly that the only Amberson mark still left upon the town was the name of the boulevard—Amberson boulevard. But he had reckoned without the city council of the new order, and by an unpleasant coincidence, while the thought was still in his mind, his eyes fell upon a metal oblong sign upon the lamp-post at the corner. There were two of these little signs upon the lamp-post, at an obtuse

Prominent Indiana Farmer Cured of Rheumatism by Taking Number 40 for the Blood

Newburgh, Indiana, April 17, 1919. "I suffered with rheumatism for several years and tried numerous remedies with little or no benefit. Number 40 For the Blood was recommended to me and I have used in all six bottles and am entirely cured, and have had no symptoms of the disease for over two years." Frank Stancer, Number 40 encourages rapid elimination of morbid and unhealthy products used in the treatment of chronic enlargements of glands, in blood troubles, chronic enlargement of the spleen and liver. FERRIBLE TESSIE that he felt. He went on slowly, his knees shaky. But he found Fanny not at home; she had been out all afternoon; and there was no record of any caller, and he began to wonder, then to doubt if the small lady he had seen in the distance was Lucy. It might as well have been, he said to himself—since anyone who looked like her could give him "a jolt like that!"

Lucy had not left a card. She never left one when she called on Fanny; though she did not give her reasons a quite definite form in her own mind. She came seldom; this was but the third time that year, and when she did come, George was not mentioned either by her hostess or by herself—an oddity contrived between the two ladies without either of them realizing how odd it was.

At other times Lucy's thoughts of George were anything but continuous, and weeks went by when he was not consciously in her mind at all. Her life was a busy one; she had the big house "to keep up"; she had a garden to keep up, too, a large and beautiful garden; she represented her father as a director for half a dozen public charity organizations, and did private charity work of her own, being a proxy mother of several large families; and she had "danced down," as she said, groups from eight or nine classes of new graduates returned from the universities, without marrying any of them, but she still danced—and still did not marry.

Her father, observing this circumstance happily, yet with some hypocritical concern, spoke of it to her one day as they stood in her garden. "I suppose I'd want to shoot him," he said, with attempted lightness. "But I mustn't be an old pig. I'd build you a beautiful house close by—just over yonder."

"No, no! That would be like—" she began impulsively; then checked herself. George Amberson's comparison of the Georgian house to the Amberson mansion had come into her mind, and she thought that another new house, built close by for her, would be like the house the Major built for Isabel.

"Like what?" "Nothing." She looked serious, and when he reverted to his idea of "some day" grudgingly surrendering her up to a tutor, she invented a legend. "Did you ever hear the Indian name for that little grove of beech trees on the other side of the house?" she asked him.

"No—and you never did either!" he laughed. "Don't be so sure! I read a great deal more than I used to—getting ready for my bookish days when I'll

Dinner Stories

A stylishly dressed woman entered the restaurant. The waiter handed her a bill of fare written in French, and Could a woman, dressed in the height of fashion, confess that she was unable to read French? Taking the pencil, she made a few dashes, and the order read: "Dinner, $2.00." "August 20th," "Vegetables," "Please pay at the desk." "No tips." The waiter brought her a beefsteak and chip potatoes, but she did not dare to raise a word in protest.

In an Arkansas river town built largely on reclaimed land most of the houses had to be built on pillars four or five feet above ground. One resident, with a longer head than his neighbors, inclosed the space under his house with pickets, and in the pen thus made kept his drove of scrawny hogs.

"Do you think it is healthful to keep your hogs under the house like that?" he was asked.

"Aw, I do 'know, stranger, I reckon so," replied the native, and hitched up his overalls.

"Never notice any bad effect from it?" "Why no," he drawled. "I been a'keepin' my haws there for 14 years, an' never lost a hawg."

"There's an atmosphere of wealth about this home."

"Do you judge from the size of the house, the ample garage in the rear, the maid sweeping down the front steps and a gardener busy on the lawn?"

"No, I judge by the size of the dog on the veranda. Anybody who can afford to feed a Great Dane these days must have plenty of money."

Newton's Comet Was Lantern Tied to Boy's Kite

Newton, Mass.—Something like Mr. Pickwick's mysterious night flash flickered over Newton. It bobbed about the sky in the most erratic manner and was variously taken by the wondering groups on the streets as a comet, a "shooting star," or just a freak of nature. The latter guess was the nearest, because it was just a lantern tied to a kite's tail by an ingenious boy who was reversing Franklin's stunt of taking light from the firmament.

Grasshoppers Will Eat Anything; Devour Pillow

Owensville, Ind.—Grasshoppers ate the cloth covering of a feather pillow used to soften the seat of a hay rake while George Mitchell was eating his dinner.

Jacob Taylor asserted the hoppers are not averse to gnawing pitchfork handles and Ben Benson brought to town a young tree which had been stripped of leaves and bark by the insects. There are just samples of evidence that grasshoppers are devouring about everything in sight except men and animals in this vicinity.

Too Much Appetite may be as dangerous as too little

When the skin is sallow or yellow, the eyes dull, the head aches or sleep broken and unrefreshing, the back aches, or there is a pain under the right shoulder blade—it is an indication that the body is being poisoned by poorly digested and imperfectly eliminated food-waste. THOUSANDS WATCH FIRST DAY'S RACES

Before one of the largest crowds in the history of the Janesville Fair, three of the most thrilling races ever seen in this city were staged yesterday afternoon. In the third race of the day, the 2:17 pace, six heats were necessary before Miss Anita Night, who carried the winning position, was awarded the grand prize. Thousands of spectators lined the grandstands and crowded along the home stretch fence were treated with thrills in every race.

Janesville easily upheld her reputation yesterday as the "Lexington of the North" and established beyond all doubt that the best horses in the country are entered in this section of the fair. The feature event of the afternoon was the 2:17 pace which starting with eight horses narrowed down in the fifth and sixth heats to two horses, Miss Anita Night and Nellie Thorn. Miss Anita Night, who carried the winning position, was awarded the grand prize. It was one of the most exciting races ever staged on the local track with Miss Anita Night winning after a hard struggle.

Miss Anita Night captured the fifth and sixth heats but not without a desperate struggle over every foot of the mile oval. In the last heat, the veteran, driving Miss Anita Night was awarded the pole position in the last two heats and held the place throughout the race. Nellie Thorn being beaten by a margin in both heats. H. F. McCut, driving Nellie Thorn, came down the home stretch under the whip vigorously, but Miss Anita Night had enough strength in reserve to get under the wire in front.

In the 2:16 pace, the first event of the day, Dick Dickson, owned and driven by George Spencer of Janesville had an easy time in coping the first position. Spencer, who is the veteran driver of the state, piloted his horse through three straight heats and at no time was in danger of being displaced. Hal Mahone, driven by seven children, was awarded second money. Hanley B third money and Bondeline fourth money.

Coming from second place in the first heat, Armita, owned and driven by Richard Hutchinson, topped the next three heats in splendid style and was given first money. It was a race in every heat between Armita and Louis Winter and in the last two heats Louis Winter flashed under the wire only a few inches behind Armita. With the track in excellent shape some fast time was made in all heats. John L. Fisher, official starter, was called away during the second heat of the first race and J. W. Robbins, well known to local horsemen was substituted.

MONDAY'S RESULTS

Sheboygan 13, Janesville 1.
Roskuskos 1, Manitowoc 0.
McCoys Stars 1-2, Waupun 0-3.

Those slipping, sliding, falling Janes lost again yesterday, this time to the mighty Chairs at Sheboygan by a count of 13 to 1. After playing Liebi's clan a 3 to 1 game for five innings, the blow-up came and a flock of hits increased the northerners' score while in the twelfth seventh they pushed five runs across, winding up a total of 13 by driving in two in the eighth.

The pennant march of the speeding Manitowocs was abruptly halted by the Roskuskos, of 10 to 0, while the McCoys All Stars and Waupun split fifty-fifty on a doubleheader at the Prison City.

Chairs Got 19 Hits.
Four different pitchers were used by the Janes in an effort to stem the tide of blows that flowed so freely from the sticks of the slugging Sheboygan crew who collected a grand total of 19 hits, two of which were circuit drives, one a triple, while four were doubles. Rubie Eldred started and lasted until the middle of the sixth stanza when things became too hot for him, a total of five hits being registered on him during his time in the box. Viney finished the inning allowing three more hits. Kakuske then took a fling at it and pitched hitless ball (he pitched so he was better). Then Peley Brausen jogged over and pitched two innings, being touched for four hits.

The Janes collected five hits off Buster Brausen, Brausen and Keith each registered two, while Aaron connected with the other. Brausen's hits were a double and a triple. Only one Chair struck out and Viney had the honor of doing the trick.

GREYS WIND UP YEAR WITH 11-3 VICTORY

The Janesville Greys defeated the Charley Bluff in a fast game featured by Pete Fleming's stellar twirling for the Greys. He struck out 14 men and yielded but 4 hits. Incidentally the Greys carried off the $75 side-bet. Randolph started for the losers, but gave way to Mullen in the second after two runs had been scored off him. In the fifth inning with the bases packed, Marshall patted a three-bagger into the trees.

Old Pershing Homestead May Be Bought by Nation

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]
Greensboro, Pa.—A movement is under way in Westmoreland County to have the old Frederick Pershing homestead near Youngstown purchased by the nation, State or county, or by funds raised through private subscription and have it set aside as a park. The purpose is to place in the county a memorial to the pioneer of the Pershing family, Frederick Pershing, from whom General John J. Pershing is a lineal descendant of the fourth generation, settled here in 1763.

The most valuable asset in a successful pitcher's repertoire is control. Without it a slabster encounters no end of difficulty in winning games. A twirler may have a world of speed and curves galore, but what good is all that if he wants to hurl the ball where he wants it to go? In short, control is the secret of successful pitching in leagues big and leagues small.

The Reds offers a good example of the control of the hurlers. A total of 10 games was played, six with the Giants and four in Brooklyn. In the games Ellor, Huether, Fisher, Ring, Sallee, Bressler and Luque played at least one frame, and the only member of the staff who did not get into a contest was Mitchell, a young right hander. In the 10 contests a total of 353 batters were pitched to and only nine were walked to first base. This is an average of less than one walk a game. Only one batter earned the distinction of being purposely passed, and he is Larry Doyle, who stepped in the plate in the 14-inning contest at the Polo grounds as a pinch hitter.

Jimmy Ring, who owes nearly all his success to Pat Moran's words of wisdom, hurled the game for the Reds, and it was the only pass he issued during the long battle. In the series with the Robins that followed the Polo ground contests Ring did not allow a run to be scored off him, and Ed Koney was the only man able to draw a pass. Ring limited the Robins to three widely scattered hits, two of which were of the scratchy variety. In the game Hod Eller hurled against the Robins he did not issue a single pass to first base. In that game Eller duplicated a perfect control displayed by the veteran Slim Sallee in a previous game of the series.

In the first game of the series at Ebbetts' field, Huether, who displayed perfect control and only six hits were made off him and the Robins were shut out.

When John McGraw obtained Frank Snyder from the Cardinals it was assumed in some quarters that as the Giant leader already had Low McCarly, Mike Gonzales and Paul Smith, Snyder was secured for use as stranding material. The assumption has not proved correct, as all the four catchers have been retained and probably will continue to hold berths on the New York club. McGraw always handles the delivery of Toney, Gonzales goes behind the bat with Barnes or Douglas in the box and Snyder does the backstopping for Benton and Neff. Smith's duties are chiefly confined to the bull pen, but McGraw is bringing him along slowly and expects the youngster to develop into a high grade catcher.

Flash of Tin Badges Parts Him and $1,000
Cleveland, Ohio—All are not sleuths who sport tin badges and carry guns. Joseph Gainer is now fully cognizant of the truth of this aphorism. It cost him $1,000 to learn it. Four men entered Gainer's home and flashed shiny badges, telling him they were searching for "revolutionary literature." Discovering that Gainer had a belt full of money threw them off the scent of the "red" literature. However, and Gainer is sadder but wiser.
